LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE

LODGE INSTALLED LAST NIGHT IN THIS CITY WITH IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES.

FRANCIS LODGE HERE IN FORCE

Starts Off With About Seventy-Five Representative Citizens of Ada and Vicinity.

Last night marked another milestone in the history of Ada. The Loyal Order of Moose installed a lodge here with approximately 75 members. The work was by the Francis Lodge, under the supervision of National Director, H. P. Rucker. Everything connected with the affair passed off without a hitch, and every member expressed himself as more than pleased with the order.

The Francis herd chartered a special train, and led by their band came down and demonstrated to the Ada novices that the Moose are an exceedingly live bunch. They have certainly put Francis on the map to a greater extent than any one factor in that little burg. It was nearly 10 o'clock before the real work commenced and so unanimously was everything concurred in that the work was completed in three hours. Director, Col. Rucker, says the work of the selection of officers was done with greater expedition than any lodge he had ever installed.

The following officers were chosen:

Past Director, C. C. Williams.
Director, Robert Roland.
Vice Director, A. D. Coon.
Prelate, Ollie Davidson.
Secretary, Vance Lee.
Treasurer, Dr. W. H. Enloe.
Sergeant at Arms, James Miller.
Inner Guard, Marion Bogle.
Outer Guard, C. C. Newton.
Trustees: C. D. Tanner, P. H. Deal and John Chauncey.

Speeches were delivered by the officers and Col. Rucker, and judging from the applause that greeted them they struck a responsive feeling in the minds of their brothers. Mr. Kellogg of Francis also made a few telling remarks and met with an ovation.

After the installation ceremonies were over the Moose were served with a swell lunch.

The new lodge starts off well, and from the enthusiasm shown by the members, it bids fair to become one of the largest in the state, as the members are all natural boosters, and there is not a knocker in the bunch.

The charter will be held open for 30 days so that every good man in Ada who wishes to, can get in on the ground floor.

The Moose of Ada are under obligations to their brothers of Francis and will no doubt "get even" with them soon.

The lodge will meet every Thursday night in L. O. O. M. Hall, in the Adams building, Townsend Avenue.

MORGAN'S CONTRIBUTION TO G. O. P. CAMPAIGN FUND

Washington, Oct. 3.—J. Pierpont Morgan, gray, slightly deaf, retiring and blunt, rather than gruff, took the witness stand before the Clapp committee today to testify to such things as he told the committee he could remember in relation particularly to the 1904 campaign.

Many details which the committee sought to obtain from the financier had failed to impress themselves upon his memory sufficiently, but he did correct a few wrong impressions. For one thing, he said he contributed to Mr. Bliss in 1904 not only $100,000, but another $50,000. This latter sum, he was quite sure, went to the state campaign to help out Odell. He thought Bliss and Odell came for the $50,000. He did not remember whether Mr. Cortelyou was with them, but he did say that Mr. Cortelyou came around "several times," after money, he supposed. No, he did not get irritated over the appeals for more contributions.

"I got used to it," he told the committee. Further questioning developed that Mr. Morgan took the visits of the "doughbag" committee rather philosophically. He said "$100,000 was the usual Morgan contribution to a Republican National campaign, when it was an important one." That sum was contributed in 1900, also. The "doughbag" committee also took these contributions as a matter of fact. Asked whether Mr. Bliss and Mr. Cortelyou were not grateful for the $100,000 lump sum, he replied: "I never experienced any gratitude in connection with these matters." Mr. Morgan volunteered an emphatic statement that there never was a string attached to any contribution from him or his firm. He said he was guided solely by the welfare of the public and asked no favors in return for his contributions.

Roff Gets Glass Sand Plant.

F. H. Wickett and George W. Armstrong have been in Roff the past two weeks making arrangements for the installation of a glass-sand plant on the Wickett place just northeast of Roff, stating that the plant will be equipped with modern machinery having a capacity of 200 tons daily.

Judge Armstrong informed us that sand plants do not usually run during the summer months, and that the machinery would be installed for crushing and washing the sand so that operations would begin about September 1st of 1913. Arrangements have already been completed to supply every glass factory on the Frisco with the Roff sand.

This is a big thing for Roff as it means 40 to 50 new families as soon as the plant is in operation, and the work of installing the plant will give employment to a number of men, all of which will go to building a bigger and better town.—Roff Eagle.

Married.

Last evening at the White Rooming House, corner Thirteenth and Townsend, Rev. Chas. L. Brooks united in marriage T. N. Flesher and Miss Rita McCoy. Mr. Flesher has lately come to Ada and has a position at the Dorsey barber shop. Miss McCoy has lived here for sometime and is well known. Mr. and Mrs. Flesher will be at home to their friends at the White Rooming House.

Mrs. Simmons, the dressmaker, has returned home from Cleburne, Texas, and is now rooming at 210 W. 14th street.

BEAUTIES OF ROOSEVELTISM

B. J. Waugh Talks on Ball Moose Platform—Predicts Big Majority for Teddy.

Thursday evening, at the court house, B. J. Waugh, a six-weeks convert from Democracy to Bull Mooseism addressed a crowd of between fifty and sixty in the interest of Roosevelt's candidacy for a third term. He was given very good attention, and the four or five members of his party present applauded him vigorously three or four times. He promised two or three times to give his reasons for the change in his belief, but never got around to it. He took up the Progressive platform plank by plank, and dwelt at length on each, denouncing the present prevailing condition of the country and picturing prosperity and glory that would come with the election of Roosevelt. He further declared that every principle found in the democratic platform is likewise in the Bull Moose platform, except "free trade" and that issue, he said, is so rank that it smells to high heaven.

He declared that in recent years a great change has come over Roosevelt, and now keenly alive to the conditions will devote himself to their reform. He also took occasion to remark that the Progressive party was born from a need of reform and not his man will be elected by the greatest majority ever given a candidate, and also that he will carry every county in Oklahoma north of the Rock Island railroad, and that the state will give him a majority of from 15,000 to 25,000. He is certainly an optimist. He was also a trifle extravagant with his figures in another instance, declaring that eight million people either froze or starved to death in New York city last winter.

Mr. Waugh also took occasion to give a brief sketch of his family and himself and his work for the democratic party and the cause of labor. He also claimed to have some interesting letters from Jack Love and other prominent democrats of the state testifying to the genuineness of his brand of democracy, promising to publish them when the occasion demanded. He did not state, however, that these gentlemen have probably changed their opinion lately.

The speaker was introduced by M. F. Manville, who referred to the meeting as being really the birth of the new party in Pontotoc county, it being the first meeting held.

BAY STATE'S NOTABLE IDENTITY CASE

Boston, Mass., Oct. 4.—The trial of the Daniel Blake Russell identity case in East Cambridge has now passed its 50th day of actual proceedings, and the end is not yet in sight. This is the second trial of the famous case and is being conducted before a master appointed by the East Cambridge Superior Court. The first trial took place last winter in the Middlesex Probate Court and was one of the longest and most sensational of the kind in the history of American legal jurisprudence. Like the first trial, the present proceedings have been up to date enlivened with romantic features, surprises and sensations which would find difficulty of belief if appearing in a work of fiction.

The Russell case is probably the most notable identity case ever tried in an American court. It rivals in interest and resembles in many respects the famous Tichborne case, which ran for 170 days before Lord Chief Justice Cockburn in England some 30 years ago.

In the first trial Judge Lawton decided against "Dakota Dan," who claims to be Daniel Blake Russell, son of the late Daniel Russell of Melrose, and who also claims his share of the $500,000 estate now held by William C. Russell, another son of Daniel Russell.

Apparently not in the least discouraged over this decision, the Dakota claimant went to work to have the case reopened and, though without funds or the help of counsel, he succeeded in securing another trial of his case.

Persons in daily attendance at the present hearing in the East Cambridge court have been much impressed by the story told by "Dakota Dan" and the evidence of the witnesses who have testified in his behalf. In his fight for recognition the claimant has told on the stand, in a simple way and with remarkable memory, of the events which took place in the home which he says he left in Melrose a quarter of a century ago. For a time he lived the life of a tramp, getting from one part of the country to another as best he might. He has worked with circuses and as a deck hand shod horses in blacksmith shops, and spent winters as a hand in lumber camps and mills, according to his story. The tale of his wanderings and the vicissitudes of his life since 1885 has taken him in retrospect from the docks of Liverpool, where he paid his passage in the steerage, to the woods of northern Michigan, and finally to the Bad Lands of North Dakota. There he settled down to some extent and for some time had been employed as a ranch manager. Finally a desire to return to his old home seized him and he arrived in Melrose something more than a year ago to find that the man whom he claims as his father had died and left an estate of $500,000 and a will in which was the provision that the long-missing son should share half the fortune in the event of his return. But the elder son, William C. Russell, in whose possession the estate was held, not only refused to surrender any portion of it, but positively denied the claim of relationship set up by the man from Dakota.

To support his claim as Daniel Blake Russell a large number of witnesses have appeared at present at the present hearing to identify the claimant as the son of Daniel B. Russell. Of these, some have known him for 40 and others for 25 years. They knew him intimately in many cases, and were acquainted with the peculiarities and characteristics of his youth. One of the most important of the recent witnesses has been the former sweetheart of Daniel Blake Russell, Miss Hattie M. Keith, who told on the stand of her friendship with the long missing son of the late Daniel Russell. With great positiveness Miss Keith declared that Daniel B. Russell and "Dakota Dan," the claimant, are the same person.

To oppose the claim of "Dakota Dan" and the testimony of his witness, the respondents, William C. Russell and Ferdinand B. Almy, the latter the latter of whom is said to have had the entire administration of the estate since the death of Daniel Russell, have declared that the claimant is an imposter and have undertaken to prove that he is not Daniel Blake Russell, but James Delbert Ruseau, who was born of poor parents in Bombay, N. Y., in 1865.

Not the least remarkable feature of the contest has been the part played by the man called "Fresno Dan," who mysteriously appeared on the scene when the first trial of the case was near an end. "Fresno Dan" was taken into the home of William C. Russell and was publically accepted as the long missing heir, though so far as is known none of the residents of Melrose was able to detect any resemblance between "Fresno Dan" and the missing Dan Blake Russell.

Gifford Pinchot, Mr. Roosevelt's right arm in his present contest, says of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law: The tariff, under the policy of protection, was originally a means to raise the rate of wages which has been made a tool to increase the cost of living. The wool schedule professing to protect the wool grower is found to result in sacrificing grower and consumer alike to one of the most rapacious of trusts. The cotton schedule was increased in the face of the uncontradicted public testimony of the manufacturers themselves that it ought to remain unchanged. The steel trust interest by a trick, secured an indefensible increase in the tariff on structural steel. The sugar trust stole from the government like a petty thief, yet Congress, by means of dishonest schedule continues to protect it in bleeding the public.

THE BULL MOOSER'S SPEECH

In his speech at the court house Thursday evening, B. J. Waugh was something of a disappointment. He spent two hours discussing the planks of the Bull Moose platform, extolling the virtues of Roosevelt and the unsatisfactory condition of things generally, but he never got around to the point of telling how he came to join the party so soon after being defeated for the democratic nomination for congress. It has the appearance of being a bolt partly to gratify his desire for revenge on the party that did not give him the recognition to which he thought himself entitled, and partly because there was more money in stumping the state for Teddy than for Wilson. The Bull Moosers have always managed to get hold of plenty of campaign funds from some unknown source, and no doubt Mr. Waugh is getting his share of it. He has been engaged in several sorts of business before now, preaching, lecturing for labor organizations, etc., but evidently was not able to stick anywhere. It is said that originally he was in the Methodist church, but later became a member of the Christian denomination. It seems that he can change his politics with equal ease. Another thing: He declared that on the fourth of March Teddy would set free 20,000,000 wage slaves but never explained how he will accomplish this great act with a congress that will be hostile to him, if he should be elected. Nor did he explain why Roosevelt made no effort to ameliorate these conditions while in the White House. Most of the evils complained of had their origin during his seven year incumbency, culminating during the administration of Taft, whom he named as his successor, and nominated by the application of the very methods that Taft's followers used to defeat his aspirations for a third term nomination.

WHEN THE HIT DOG HOWLS.

The News is informed that some of the socialist orators at the encampment indulged in some fire works Thursday over an editorial that recently appeared in the paper about the attempted murder at Holdenville and subsequent suicide of the socialist who perpetrated the deed. We had expected that, for the hit dog howls every time, and in this case the graft enjoyed by these leaders depends on their ability to keep alive the fires of hatred in the bosoms of their dupes. Like the manufacturers of silver idols at Ephesus, they are concerned about the loss of their jobs and the prospect of going to work like other people is appalling to them, and like the Ephesian silversmiths who raised a tumult with their cries of "Great is Diana of the Ephesians," they are concealing their real motives with the howl "Great is socialism," and damning every citizen who holds an opinion contrary to their own.

For the rank and file of the party, the News has the kindest of feelings, but for the leaders who are fattening off of them we feel nothing but contempt. They rant about the laboring classes not receiving the full product of his toil, and that every man should be a producer. What do they produce? Hell is about all any of them ever raised, but with their hue and cry about "capitalism"—and every man who does not follow their teachings is a capitalist or the blinded dupe of some capitalist or else just a plain fool—they have thrived and fattened. Their leaders, who are drawing so much per day can afford as good clothes as anybody, but the man who makes this possible, must usually be content with ducking overalls. It would be something of a joke if these fellows got what they produced, now wouldn't it?

How fitting is the open hand as the emblem of the party. At every meeting it is the open hand of the agitator that is held out in the appeal for money with which to carry on the fight and spread the new gospel, and yet at these same meetings these same orators denounce everything and everybody else as grafters who are robbing the people. How about themselves?

Few of these men ever really worked, but have succeeded splendidly in keeping out of real work, although repeated failures as preachers, lecturers, etc., have made it necessary to step lively to keep up with every new ism that arose in order to catch a new lot of victims.

To keep their followers as much in darkness as possible, they are highly intolerant of every other form of thought. They exhaust their vocabularies in denouncing other parties, but it is nothing short of sacrilege for the ones attacked to offer a word of criticism on the holy cause of socialism. The people are advised not to read papers of the "capitalist" class, confining themselves to the Appeal and to the various papers published by themselves—for almost every one of them is either editing a paper or is trying to collect enough subscription money to enable them to start. Even when once started these papers have a way of moving about and leaving their subscribers in the lurch, just as was the case with the "American Manhood" which after a career of a few weeks at Texarkana was moved to Ada. After the "kumruds" of Pontotoc county had been separated from their surplus change, the paper went dead.

As stated in the editorial in regard to the Holdenville affair these leaders are creating a frenzy of class hatred everywhere. Their inflammatory utterances fire the minds of their followers and on their heads must rest a part of the blame for tragedies like that at Holdenville. The poor fellow whose reason was unbalanced by their teaching as well as his victim who will be a cripple for life, is a product of their work. Are they willing to take what they produce?

As said at the outset the orators who jumped on the News are simply resorting to their usual tactics of hoodwinking the people by turning their attention from themselves to the paper. Well, let 'er go, Gallagher.

Not Really Naval Stores.

The term of turpentine, tar, pitch and rosin as naval stores is a misnomer. It originated many years ago, when tar and pitch first were used to coat the bottoms of vessels to make them watertight and to cover the rigging of ships to preserve it from the action of the weather. All ships carried always a supply of tar among their stores, and hence the original of the term "naval stores." It was used only by ship builders and ship owners and others who had to do directly with shipping, and was a nautical term only. Then, when the products of the gum of the long-leaf pine came into general commercial importance, the term was accepted as a fitting one for all articles of commerce manufactured from that substance, and is maintained to this day, although the uses that created it have little to do with the interests of the trade.

Groucher's Point of View.

"A holiday now and then is very desirable," said the genial citizen. "It gives us all a chance to rest." "I can't see it that way," replied Mr. Groucher. "It compels me to work that much harder to provide the clothes demanded for the special display."

HIS SYMPATHIES WITH ELK

Somewhat Natural, Since Animal Rescued Engineer From Extremely Awkward Position.

A curious story of adventure comes from Montana. While a freight train was lying over at a small mountain station, the engineer borrowed a shotgun and started out for a short hunt. Finding nothing, he was returning to the train when a cow came running at him, and before he realized his danger, she tossed him in the air.

Getting to his feet as quickly as possible, he dodged behind a tree, and then, to his dismay, found that the gun barrel was bent so as to be useless. The next ten minutes were very lively ones, while the cow chased the engineer round and round the tree. Just when he was about to succumb from fatigue, an angry snort was heard, and a big elk appeared upon the scene, head down and prepared for a fight.

So was the cow, and in another moment the two animals dashed at each other. The engineer watched the combat for a few minutes, until prudence suggested that he should make a retreat as soon as he could. He regained the train in safety, and never knew the outcome of the battle, but he hopes the elk was the victor.

Advocates Leaves of Soap.

A chemical friend of the Scientific American suggests that a campaign be started against the common cake of soap. About 50 years ago there was sold a form of soap for travelers, consisting of a booklet, about two inches by four inches, in which small leaves of soap paper saturated with soap were bound. Each leaf contained enough soap for one washing of the hands. It is suggested that one might profitably dispense, through a penny-in-the-slot machine, a paper towel in which is folded a sheet of soap paper, for convenient use in public lavatories.

COTTON CROP RESPECT POOR, SAYS REPORT.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 4.—With a crop damage estimated at 36 percent by drouth, a prospective yield of 79.5 as compared with the 1911 crop, the growing condition of cotton in Oklahoma on September 25, is given at 65.6 in the report of the state board of agriculture, issued Thursday. The condition of the crop for the previous month was 80.1 per cent.

The government report, which covers the same time as that of the state issued Wednesday, gives Oklahoma at 69 per cent. The board received reports from 228 correspondents out of a possible 700.

The production of corn compared with other fall crops is given at 67.7. Production of cow peas, kafir corn, broom corn, sorghum, onions, peanuts, milo maize, as compared with other fall crops, ranges high. The peach crop of this year is rated at 155.7 per cent compared with that of 1911. There are prospects for a good apple crop and alfalfa is still in good condition.

Ministerial Economy.

Considering his meagre salary, it was a mystery to economical parishioners how the minister could afford to contribute so liberally to the church's social affairs, but another financial expert finally explained that it was a good investment.

"The money he contributes makes these entertainments so attractive," he said, "that the young people fall in love and marry, and he makes it back many times over on the wedding fees."

PREPARING WHEAT LAND.

All land to be planted in wheat this fall should have already been disced, in order to pulverize the surface, kill vegetation, preserve the moisture, and make plowing possible when it would otherwise be impossible owing to dry weather. If the land has not been previously disced and plowed, it should be done at once. There are very few places in the state where plowing cannot be done at this time, if the surface has been thoroughly pulverized by the use of the disc.

In preparing your wheat ground remember the following points:

1st. The plowed soil must be knitted back to the subsoil. If the land is moist this is easily done with a harrow and roller, etc. If the soil is dry use a weighted disc, set straight, following with the harrow. The implement used is not important, the important thing is to knit the furrow slice back to the subsoil.

2nd. Never leave the field without harrowing what has been plowed during the day. Or better still, use the harrow each half day.

3rd. Should a rain fall and pack the soil, loosen up the surface with a harrow, or, if necessary, a disc.

4th. Keep the weeds killed.

5th. The best time to plant is between the 15th of September and the 10th of October, but the condition of your soil is of more importance than the time of planting. When your field is loose on the surface, firm beneath, and has sufficient moisture to bring the plants well above ground, that is the time to plant.

6th. Do not plow more than one inch deeper than the land has been previously plowed.

These suggestions refer to the preparation. The following refer to planting:

1st. The rate of seeding should vary from three pecks per acre in the western part of the state to one bushel per acre in the central and eastern portions. On rich, moist land in the eastern part of the state, five pecks per acre may be used. This refers to seed sowed with a drill. Where seed is broadcasted about a peck more per acre more should be used.

2nd. The seed should be planted from two to three inches deep, depending on the amount of moisture it is not necessary to plant deep.

Yours very truly,
MARLE WOODSON, Supt.

THE SCRAP BOOK

Cigars for Camels.

An official of the Spanish army who has been much in Africa and commanded a division during the recent trouble in Morocco says that the natives have found a peculiar use for the tobacco plant. It seems that when in battle, particularly when there is cannonading, the camel becomes infuriated to the point of losing control over his nerves. The camel also is subject to toothache and becomes at such times ugly and unmanageable. The natives have found a way to soothe him. They put in his mouth a triangular piece of wood with a hole in the center just large enough to hold fast a cigar. The camel draws in the smoke and his demeanor changes. He becomes docile and happy and, as long as his "smoke" lasts at any rate, marches with his load at a good pace even if the ordinarily disturbing noise of firearms is going on about him. Under these circumstances, however, the minute his cigar is finished or its light goes out he comes to a standstill and will no more move than a balking donkey until he gets ready or a new cigar is provided.

Leap Year Paradox.

Did you ever know, writes a correspondent in the Baltimore Sun, that just because you live in Maryland, when you wake up on the morning of February 29, you are waking upon the day before? Or, rather, that you are waking up on the same day that you did the day before? Or that February 28 and February 29 are one and the same day? Well, it's true, all of it. Might sound a little queer until you get used to it, but, try as you will, there's no getting around the fact that Maryland has but one day in February 28 and 29. Some other states have two days, but this state has only one. The reason? It's easy. Way back in the year 1236, when Henry III. was king of England, they framed a law making February 28 and February 29 one and the same day. The old common law of England is still in force in Maryland, so there you are. If you have a propensity not coming due on February 29, why don't you have to pay it until February 29.

Punch and Judy.

Punch is the last survival in England of the old mystery or sacred plays, of which the Bavarians retain one in the now noted play at Oberam mergau.

The full name, Punch and Judy, is from the two chief characters, Pontius and Judas. Punch is a Roman, speaks with a foreign accent, has a Roman nose, and has on his back a hump.

This is in consequence of the tradition that after the condemnation, Pontius was haunted by the idea that the evil one sat on his back. In his exile, he was always followed by a black dog. Hence the introduction of Toby, so named from the dog of Tobias in the Bible.

Judas has now been transformed into a woman, because he was dressed in a flowing robe, after the fashion of the east.

35,949,478 Barrels of Beer.

The number of persons licensed as brewers for sale in the United Kingdom last year was 4,269. Of "persons licensed as brewers not for sale," private brewers liable to beer duty totaled 1,104; and private brewers not liable to beer duty amounted to 5,364.

The number of licenses issued to victualers was 8,669, and to persons to sell beer: To be drunk on the premises, 28,015; not to be drunk on the premises, 22,296.

The "bulk barrels of beer produced" numbered 35,949,478, and the amount of beer duty charged in the year ended September 30 last, was £13,402,940 16s 4d.

Beer exported during the year consisted of 607,940 barrels, of a declared value of £1,876,662.

Duration of a Wink.

The time occupied by the several phases of the movement in a wink has been measured, and it is found that the mean duration of the descent of the lid is from seventy-five to ninety-five thousandths of a second. The interval while the eye is shut was in one case only fifteen-thousandths of a second. The rising of the lid occupied seven-tenths of a second. A specially arranged photographic apparatus was used. The popular phase that something is done "quicker than a wink" is, therefore, expressive to a degree that may be stated in fractions of a second.

Aviation Statistics.

The extraordinary progress of air-manship in France is shown by figures compiled by M. Besanson, the secretary of the Paris Aero club. There was only one death for every 62,500 miles flown. Last year 12,000 across country, instead of 3,000; 1, 625,000 miles were flown, against 312,500, and the hours of remaining in the air aggregated 30,000, as against 8,300.

SHE COULD NOT REMEMBER

Absent-Minded Woman's Peculiar Reason for Wanting to Be Rung Up on the 'Phone.

Absent-minded persons sorely try the patience of girls in the New Rochelle telephone office. Not long ago a woman confessed herself subject to extreme forgetfulness and requested the day operator on her exchange to ring her up every morning at 9 o'clock. A week later she said:

"Central, what was it I wanted you to call me for at 9 o'clock?"

"I don't know," said the girl, "You didn't tell me. You just asked me to call at 9 o'clock."

"Too bad," said the woman. "I know there was something I wanted to do every morning at 9 o'clock, but I can't for the life of me think what it was."

The 9 o'clock calls continued, however, and several days later the woman took central into her confidence again.

"I have found out why I wanted to be called," she said. "A friend had given me a canary and I wanted to make sure of remembering to feed it. The poor little thing is nearly starved. Hereafter when you ring won't you just say, 'Feed the bird,' and I'll go straight and do it?"

Central promised, and the neglected canary is now a plump and contented bird.—New York Times.

First to Use Chloroform.

Chloroform as an anesthetic was first used on the 30th of September, 1846, by Dr. W. T. G. Morton, a dentist, of Boston, in a case of tooth extraction, and thereafter by him in many difficult operations. The news of the discovery reached England in December, 1846, and British dentists immediately began to use it. Sir James Simpson, a Scotch physician (1811-1870) was the first to use it in hospital practice and this he did in 1847. His discovery was considered independent of that by the Boston dentist and in 1866 he was knighted. He had a public funeral when he died and a statue of him in bronze stands in Edinburgh.

Drinking Water With Food.

It is a trifle disconcerting to be told that when the thrifty housewife expends from 20 to 28 cents per pound for the best cuts of beef about 60 per cent of the sum is being paid for water. Yet such is the case, about 60 per cent of the bulk of uncooked beef or mutton being water. . . . The flesh of pigeons is about 70 per cent water, that of fowls and ducks 65 per cent, while a really fat goose may have as little as 38 per cent of water in its composition. The flesh of fish varies considerably in the quantity of water contained, the figures ranging, according to the kinds of fish, from 40 to 80 per cent.—Popular Mechanics.

This is My 39th Birthday.

Francisco I. Madero, president of Mexico, was born October 4, 1873, in the state of Coahuila, in northern Mexico, where his family had long been wealthy and prominent. He was educated abroad, principally in France. Later he studied English literature and agriculture at the University of California. When he returned home he resumed the active management of the vast rubber and cotton plantations belonging to his family. His spare time he devoted to literary pursuits. Until 1909 he was known only for his vast wealth and literary attainments. About that time he began an attack with his pen upon the alleged abuses of the Diaz government and this brought him into public prominence. Soon he came to be regarded as a leader of the opposition to Diaz and in 1910 he became a candidate for president of the republic. His candidacy was one of the causes of the revolution that followed. Though without knowledge of military matters, Madero proved a capable leader and after months of fighting he overthrew the strong dictatorship of Diaz and succeeded him in the presidency.

FALL PLOWING.

If I was called upon to write a set of ten commandments, which all of the farmers of the state would be compelled to obey, the first one should be "Thou shalt fall-plow all of thy land that is susceptible to fall plowing; and in this shalt thou in no wise fail. So shalt thou prevail over thy insect enemies, and thy days shall be prosperous in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." And if I added anything at all to that commandment it would be a penalty clause.

I am not called upon or even allowed to write such a table of commandments, but free speech is still permitted to some people in this country, and right here I am going to follow the example of those two illustrious Americans, Wm. J. Bryan and Theodore Roosevelt, and say just what I d—d please. And also like those other two illustrious Americans, I feel that whatever I tell the people is for their own good and should be accepted without question; and if they fail to act on the good advice contained, they have no one except themselves to blame for any trouble they may have. And I lately wash my hands of such headstrong unbelievers and abandon them to their fate.

However, laying all fun aside and speaking seriously, there is no one need that demands attention from all the farmers quite so much as the need of fall plowing. The farmer needs to do fall plowing in self defense. If he does not, the insect enemies of his prosperity will winter, undisturbed, in his unplowed fields, and come out in the spring ravenously hungry and hunting breakfast, and he will have to furnish the breakfast. It will be a pretty expensive breakfast, too.

Ever see a boll worm? Well, did you ever see a corn-eat worm? Did they look anything alike? They did, because the boll worm is just the corn-eat worm under an assumed name. They are both the same "pesky" fellow. When the corn-eat worm finds that the fare in the cornfield is no longer attractive, he jumps his board bill, changes his name and goes to board in the cotton patch. And it costs you something to feed him, too. Listen! Here is something I want you to get. Judging by a 20 years' average, the corn-eat-boll worm has caused more loss to the farmers of the state than has drought. Is that in your mind to stay? Of course, the worm is with us always, while the drought only hits us in even numbered years—I believe it is the even-numbered ones—but in the long run, the worm costs us the more. And it is the "long run" that counts. We have not yet learned to overcome drought, but we do not know how to put the corn-eat worm out of business—and that is by fall plowing.

There are several generations of this worm during the crop season. The worms of the last generation dig holes in the ground of the crop lands and winter in them. These holes or burrows run straight downward to a depth of several inches, then turn back upward and come to an end an inch or two above the surface of the soil. The worms winter snugly in these closed, warm, dry holes, and if you let them stay there they will come out in the spring nice and hungry and ready for breakfast. But if you plow them out in the fall the frost and cold of winter will put an end to their mischief. Your plow does not have to have to kill them, the frost and winter cold will do that. And in the spring you will find that your ground is not only in better mechanical condition, with a deep well filled moisture reservoir, but your worms are gone as well.

There are 57 reasons for fall plowing. This one is one of the 57. If this one does not persuade you to fall plow all of your land that can be fall plowed, we will send you the other 56. Cordially yours, MARLE WOODSON.

Will Cut Down Hangman's Tree.

Fort Smith, Ark., Oct. 4.—An enormous cotton wood tree in the shade of which as many as five or six men were hanged in a single day when the United States court here had jurisdiction over the bad men and desperadoes of old Indian Territory has been ordered removed. It formerly stood within the walls of the military post, but now is in the way of street improvements.

It is announced that there will be some changes in the Katy schedule in a day or two. Agent Lindstrom says that this will not apply to this division, however, being confined principally to the main line. If any changes are made here they will amount to only a few minutes.

Listing Gettysburg Veterans.

Oklahoma City, Ok., Oct. 4.—The Peace Jubilee Commission for Oklahoma, arranging for a celebration on the Gettysburg battlefield in July, 1913, will meet in Oklahoma City, Oct. 26, for the purpose of reporting to Gov. Cruce. The commission is gathering the names of those soldiers of either army who participated in the battles, and for those who are unable to pay their way to the celebration the commission will ask the legislature to make an appropriation. It is thought not more than sixty of the veterans reside in Oklahoma.

For Waterways Improvement.

Lewiston, Idaho, Oct. 4.—Delegates from five states are attending the second annual convention of the Columbia and Snake River Waterways Association, which met here today for a two days' session. The association is working for a congressional appropriation for the completion of the Cello canal and the opening of the Columbia and Snake rivers to all-year navigation.

TEXAS CONFEDERATE VETERANS REUNION

Cleburne, Tex., Oct. 3.—The delegates to the State U. C. V. reunion and their friends took charge of the city today. About 700 homes were opened to the delegates, besides Love lady's Park was turned over to them. Tents have been provided for those who are to take part in the sham battle tomorrow morning, and there was also a large mess tent on the grounds. Every automobile in the city was pressed into service in conveying the delegates to their respective homes. Dr. J. D. Osborn was chosen officer of the day.

In the Football World.

New York, Oct. 4.—By far the most pretentious schedule thus far in the football season is due to be carried out tomorrow. Virtually all of the teams representing the prominent Eastern colleges have trying tests in prospect. Yale will take on Syracuse at New Haven and Harvard will play the formidable Holy Cross eleven at Cambridge. Princeton and Lehigh will meet at Princeton, Pennsylvania and Dickinson at Franklin Field and the Carlisle Indians and Washington and Jefferson at Washington, Pa. Cornell and Oberlin will meet at Ithaca in the first intersectional contest of the season. West Point will meet Stevens Institute and Annapolis will have Johns Hopkins for an opponent.

New Industrial Material.

As the result of many years of experimenting in England, a new substitute for hard rubber, gutta percha and leather has been announced. It is a product of seaweed. The new material is said to be especially useful in the electrical industries, being a nonflammable insulation of high dielectric strength, proof against heat, cold, oils and weather.

Cure for Nerves.

People cultivate nerves to a large extent and do not apply simple rules to cure them. Healthy work particularly out of doors, is an excellent antidote to nerves. Onions are a very good tonic for nervous people. Cranberries are good for sufferers from inactive liver.

H. P. RUCKER PRAISES ADA BUSINESS MEN

H. P. Rucker, state manager of the Loyal Order of Moose, stated to a reporter that he was surprised when he reached Ada. He said he had in mind a town of from 1500 to 2000 and was astonished to see what the town really is. He also commended the enterprise shown by our business men and merchants and on the neatness of their places of business, claiming that it is one of the best towns of its size he has had the pleasure of visiting for some time. Mr. Rucker left today for Dallas and Fort Worth.

Prof. C. W. Briles was a passenger to Weleetka this morning.

The highest point of woman's happiness is reached only through motherhood, in the clasping of her child within her arms. Yet the mother-to-be is often fearful of nature's ordeal and shrinks from the suffering incident to its consummation. But for nature's ills and discomforts usually provides remedies, and in Mother's Friend is to be found a medicine of great value to every expectant mother. It is an emulsion for external application, composed of ingredients which act with beneficial and soothing effect on those portions of the system involved. It is intended to prepare the system for the crisis, and thus relieve, in great part, the suffering through which the mother usually passes. The regular use of Mother's Friend will repay any mother in the comfort it affords before, and the helpful restoration to health and strength it brings about after baby comes. Mother's Friend is for sale at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

New Directory Wanted.

One directory that New York needs but has not got is the names and addresses of former celebrities who are now running rooming and boarding houses.

Such a volume would be highly appreciated by our nomadic population. Many a singer, actress, or writer who formerly held a place in the public eye has now settled down to the prosaic occupation of housing and feeding a small portion of that same public.

Their houses are a magnet for young persons with the artistic temperament. One woman who once enjoyed a fair reputation as a violinist has five furnished apartments which she sublets, room by room, to aspirants for dramatic, operatic, and literary honors. Reflected glory rather than physical comfort is the portion of most of these satellites, but the privilege of hobnobbing with yesterday's greatness compensates for material discomfort.—New York Times.

BIG SALMON CATCH

Forty-Nine of These Fish Caught in Seven Days.

Two Brookline Men Landed the "Beauties" in Famous New England Stream—Terrific Battle Follows "Strike."

Brookline, Me.—Seven days' fishing with a catch of forty-nine salmon, all weighing between three and five pounds, was the luck of George C. Stevens of Winthrop road and Charles R. McWilliams of Manchester road, Brookline, during a recent trip to New England's celebrated salmon fishing ground, Grand Lake stream, Maine, says the Boston Herald.

Success like that might cause the occasional disciple of Izaak Walton to yearn for many a day, but Mr. Stevens and Mr. McWilliams, both veterans of the rod and line, are not unduly elated by it. That was the sort of sport they went after and expected; the sort of sport they had had many times in the past. They are willing to admit, however, that the capture of a dozen "beauties" in one day was an achievement to be rather proud of.

For season after season the pair have visited the two broad stretches of placid water set deep in the pine woods, Grand lake and Big lake, and the little darting river which links the two and which is known to every devoted angler as Grand Lake stream. Each season has equaled its predecessors and each season's record has spread the fame of the region abroad.

Today Grand Lake stream is known in every corner of the country where there is an enthusiastic lover of the game fish. Each year brings together at the camps along the shores of the lakes the pick of the salmon fishermen of the continent. There are many tales of notable catches. One man, fishing with a fly late in May, took 29 in one day and another is reported to have landed 120 in 16 days.

Lying 169 miles north of Bangor, Grand Lake stream is reached only after the Washington country railroad is followed to Princeton. Then there is a jaunt of 16 miles by motor boat and cart to the camps deep in the forest. The journey is a long one, perhaps, but no true fisherman thinks of that once he has glimpsed the broad expanse of water sweeping before him for 50 square miles. He has only to watch a while for one of the canoes which dot the surface here and there, until he sees a shimmer of silver as a fish jumps clear to strike and the fever is upon him. After that he is busy, except at the intervals when he snatches time to eat and sleep.

Either a light bamboo or a light steel rod is employed, with silk line, double leads and a 2-0 hook. On this a minnow is securely placed in such a manner that the little fish turns and twists to give a close imitation of natural swimming. The salmon is something of an epicure in his tastes; he is particular about his diet and will not rise to dead bait or offal; he is to be lured only by a bait that is in motion.

As the guide paddles leisurely along some 50 or 75 yards of line trail behind and then the angler waits for things to happen. Pretty soon there is a flash of gleaming white and a tug at one line. It is the strike. The salmon has darted at the tempting minnow, has leaped in a graceful curve a good three feet out of the water and is off.

Now comes the hum of the reel, a song dear to the heart of every devotee of the gentle art, and the play begins. While the pleasant whirr continues the oomaniche tries every trick to hold him safe. The salmon will fight for liberty with a pertinacity greater than that of any other denizen of lake or stream.

It takes a good half hour of playing before he can be reeled in and during that time he struggles all the time. For a moment he gives in and then is off again with a new lease of strength. Throughout his battle is punctuated with a series of picturesque jumps, often as many as a half dozen, before he finally quits. While all this is going on everything is forgotten in the excitement of the sport. There are no cares, no worries, no schemes of business for the man with the rod. There is just one thing in the world, and that is the fish on the end of the line.

FLEES WIFE IN PAJAMAS

Philadelphia. Startles Churchgoers in Race for Life—Followed by Spouse With Knife.

Philadelphia.—Clad only in his pajamas, Edouard Girard startled Overbrook churchgoers when he fled from his home, pursued by his wife, Ethel, who was brandishing a good-sized carving knife.

Every now and then the wife would make a false start and the husband would take two or three jumps in an effort to prevent being dissected.

The noise became so great that Mounted Policeman Parkes made Girard dress and the pair accompany him to the police station. After hearing both sides Magistrate Boyle held the wife in $500 bail to keep the peace.

Casey Jones Kidnaped.

Chicago.—A crowd of 300 persons chased the kidnaper of Casey Jones, five, for two miles through south side streets. The kidnaper escaped. Casey Jones is a monkey and a neighborhood pet.
